A NOTE FROM THE RIGHTS DIRECTOR

I'm very pleased to present Scholastic's Foreign Rights Guide for Bologna 2011. This year we were inspired by our bestselling authors, in particular Brian Selznick, who is in Bologna in person this year to present his new novel Wonderstruck. Brian's Caldecott medal-winning The Invention of Hugo Cabret is published in 30 countries worldwide, and the movie based on the book is currently in production with Oscar-winning director Martin Scorsese at the helm. Wonderstruck promises to be another masterpiece, and we cannot wait to introduce it to the world.

Of course, Scholastic has always had a strong global presence, and I'm particularly proud of our most recent successes: 35 licenses for Shiver by Maggie Stiefvater; 25 for The 39 Clues series; 16 for Dark Life by Kat Falls; and 18 for The Guardians of Ga'Hoole series by Kathryn Lasky—just to name a few!

As always, I invite you to visit our rights website and blog, which features fresh, exclusive material from Scholastic's global talent: www.scholastic.com/rights. Speaking of global talent, we're fortunate to be backed by a strong team: our co-agents around the world who work so closely with us as we continue Scholastic's global publishing tradition.

I hope you enjoy our latest rights guide, and I look forward to speaking with each of you about our books in person.

BRIAN SELZNICK

WONDERSTRUCK

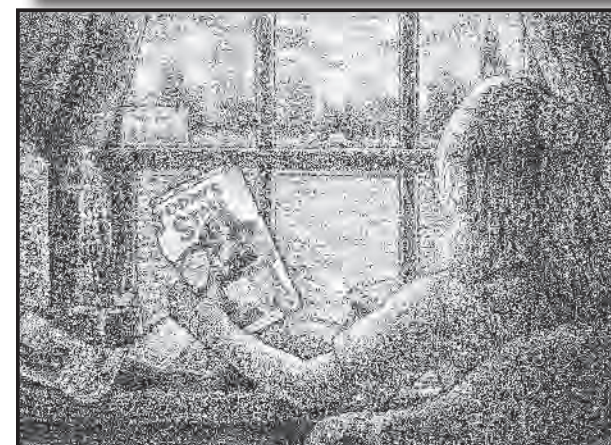

A Novel in Words and Pictures

Set fifty years apart, two independent stories – Ben’s told in words and Rose’s in pictures – weave back and forth with mesmerizing symmetry. How they unfold and untimely intertwine will surprise you, challenge you, and leave you breathless with wonder.

With over 460 pages of original drawings and playing with the form he invented in his trailblazing debut novel The Invention of Hugo Cabret, Brian Selznick sails into uncharted territory and takes readers on an awe-inspiring journey.
